ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harkins and Family Receive Felicitations From Church Members.

The twenty-second wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. M. W. Har-kins of the Covina Christian Church was made also the occasion for a formal reception to the pastor, his wife and family, on Tuesday evening.
In spite of the weather's inclemency,
the affair brought out a large number of church members and friends, who have come to feel in a very kindly manner toward the new pastor of the church.

The decorations in the church parlors were in white and violet, and the ladies had made the interior to bloom with color and cheerfulness. Mrs.
F. M. Chapman and Mrs. A. M. Seeley presided at the tea table, which was a popular corner of the rooms, and an orchestra dispensed music during the festivities.

Rev. W. S. Utter, a Christian Church pastor, made the principal speech of the evening. His words were of the most felicitous kind, and he congratulated the new pastor on the manner in which the work was going forward. J. H. Vandervort made a very happily-worded presentation speech, ending his remarks with the giving of a chop dish and a dozen Haviland china plates, in the name of the assembled people. There were also exquisitely wrapped boxes of fruit and other tokens of esteem.
Rev. Mr. Harkins responded with a speech which was very well received, and Mrs. Harkins also spoke. A vocal solo, "My Mother's Prayer," by Mark Harkins, was well rendered, and Frank Harkins gave a reading, "George's Description of Pa at the Fire." There were violin solos by Clarence Fab-rick and cornet solos by Glenn Leisure. The affair was very successful in bringing the pastor and his family closer to the people of his congregation, and will be remembered as one of the enjoyable evenings of church history.

Use It at Once.

Dr. R. R. Snowden, the scientific soil expert, writes the Argus that so many inquiries are coming to him by letter and personal calls regarding the right time for the use of nitrate of soda, that he wishes that the answer might be printed where everyone may see it. He says:

In the spring of the year, when nature is renewing her contracts for next fall's harvest, it is time to enter with her into these contracts. The fruit and vegetable grower who permits this season to pass without giving his soil an adequate supply of quickly available nitrogen is simply casting aside his finest opportunity for replenishing his exchequer.

Each pound of nitrate of soda, used within reasonable limits now, along with the other requisites—potash, lime and superphosphate not already sufficient, will enable the tree to use a certain amount more of plant food later on in the season to its advantage. A vigorous crop of blooms will thus be set, and carried to perfection with more certainty.

Monday Afternoon Club.

The meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club this week was devoted to a revision of Shakespeare's Henry IV, parts I and II, under the leadership of Mrs. Morgan.

The next meeting of the Shakespear section will be on Wednesday, Feb. 1, at 2:30 p.m., when the study of Anthony and Cleopatra will be commenced. This is a good time for new members to join this interesting section. By buying copies of the plays as they are studied many of the ladies are gradually accumulating a library of the immortal bard's works.

On Tuesday afternoon a thimble bee was held as a "house-warming," or rather, "furniture-warming," for the new rugs and chairs added greatly to the artistic effect, and a bright fire to the coziness. The attendance was depleted by the rain storm.

Next Monday will be social day,
the hostesses being Misses Miller,
Aschenbrenner, Schumacher, and Miss Byrd Reynolds.

MRS. FRANK A. SMITH.

Christian Woman Whom Many People Loved, Passes On After Illness of Seven Weeks.

After an illness of about seven weeks, during which time she suffered with a painful chronic disease of the nerves, Mrs. Frank A. Smith, of Monrovia, known by a large number of people in Covina as the girl who was Miss Mary Jane Breakey, died at her Monrovia home on Tuesday, January 24. She was 37 years old. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Andrew M. Pence of Covina, and the interment was made in Oakdale cemetery. The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. W.
Catherwood of the Baptist Church,
Church, assisted by Rev. Bede A.
Johnson of the Methodist Church. A quartet composed of Mrs. W. W. Nu-zum, Miss Mae Casey, W. Q. Custer and Thomas Trevor rendered several appropriate hymns.

Miss Mary Jane Breakey came to Covina with her parents fifteen years ago from Ballybay, County Monaghan, Ireland. She was born in that county, December 17, 1873. She came direct from her home to Covina, where she joined her sister, now Mrs. A. M.
Pence, and made her home with her uncle, J. W. Russell. She married Frank A. Smith, a Covina rancher, one year after coming here, and afterwards went with him to make their home at Gardena, where they lived several years. A few years ago they moved to Monrovia, where Mrs.
Smith's health seemed somewhat improved, but during the past seven weeks she failed rapidly.

Mrs. Smith was a woman who spent the greater portion of her life in a service for others. She was hard-working in her desire to make other lives happy, a beautiful Christian character whose influence for good had been felt in every community in which she lived. She leaves, beside her husband, a boy, thirteen years of age, an uncle, John Harris of Covina,
and four sisters, being Mrs. A. M.
Pence, Mrs. E. C. Stewart, Miss Mattie Breakey, all of Covina, and Miss Margaret Breakey of Los Angeles.
The pallbearers at the funeral were
J. H. Matthews, B. L. Reynolds, Otto
Anderson, James Bonham, T. A. Mc-Cormack, and Dr. J. C. Goodell.

Mrs. Lydia St. Clair.

Another of the old residents of the valley, Mrs. Lydia St. Clair of Azusa, died Thursday afternoon, January 26.
She was 72 years of age. Mrs. St.
Clair had been a resident of California for 27 years, and was very well known in this locality. The funeral is to be held this morning at 10 o'clock in Azusa, Rev. C. F. Richardson officiating, and interment will be made in Oakdale cemetery. Mrs. St.
Clair leaves two daughters, Mrs. C. F.
Parker and Mrs. H. W. Jeffrey, and three sons, Marion, George and Arthur St. Clair.

Mrs. Euphemia Ackerman.

The death of Mrs. Euphemia Ackerman, widow of James Ackerman, occurred on Friday, January 20, at Long Beach. She was slightly over 82 years of age. The funeral was held on Sunday at Long Beach, and interment was made in Oakdale cemetery, Covina.

Mrs. Ackerman was the mother of a large family of children. They are:
Mrs. Thomas Cook of Long Beach;
Mrs. Etta Thompson, Alhambra; Mrs.
Anna Smith, Ordway, Colorado; Mrs.
Helen Benson, Sacramento, Mrs. Car-
rio Edison, Norwalk, Cal.; Harry Ackerman, Covina; Frank Ackerman of Julesburg, Colorado.

Mann-Brubaker.

The marriage of Chris Mann, Jr., and Miss Vannie Brubaker took place last week. Miss Brubaker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brubaker of Corcoran, and Chris Mann is well known in Covina, having formerly resided here. He is a violinist and musician of considerable ability.
The bride has been employed in the home of Mrs. Caroline S. Thorne for the past five years and has been attending the Covina high school. The couple will reside in Los Angeles,
where the groom is employed.

DIES AT REDDING.

Funeral of Mrs. James Crouch Held Here Sunday Afternoon at the Presbyterian Church.

The death of Mrs. James Crouch occurred on Wednesday, January 18, at Redding, California, after an illness from intestinal trouble. She was 52
years of age. The funeral was held on Sunday at 2:30 o'clock at the Covina Presbyterian Church, Rev. Paul G. Stevens officiating, assisted by the Rev. H. W. Peck, formerly of the Methodist Church. A number of hymns of an appropriate nature were sung, some of them being especial favorites of the deceased.

Mrs. Crouch was born on October 1, 1858, at Broadhead, Wisconsin, her maiden name being Clara Shepherd.
After the death of her father she was brought up by her foster-father, Isaac Miller, living at Charles City, Iowa.
One brother survives her, being Irwin
Shepherd of Wisconsin, two half brothers, Andrew and Leslie Miller, and three half sisters, Mrs. N. R. Rundell of Hurley, South Dakota, Mrs. Ella
Gibbons and Mrs. Flora Sanders. Mrs.
Crouch and her husband, who survives her, formerly lived in Covina,
and the woman made many strong friends while here. She was a woman of beautiful Christian character.

DEATH OF PIONEER LADY.

Mother of George B. Scofield of Covina Dies at Pomona After Long and Useful Life.

The death of a pioneer lady who came across the plains when the country was an unknown land, took place at Pomona on Monday, Jan. 23,
in the person of Mrs. Angeline Rush, widow of Josiah Rush, and the mother of several well known residents of this valley. Mrs. Rush was 83 years old, and for thirty years she had lived in Los Angeles, until about the year ago she moved to Pomona. Mrs. Rush was a native of Michigan, but took up the "great trek" across the plains
from Council Bluffs, Iowa. Her father was at one time in charge of the port of entry at San Diego, and was a United States army officer. The venerable lady was a member of what was known as the "Jolly Old Ladies' Club" in Los Angeles.

Four children by her first husband,
Mr. Scofield, are living, being Ira Scofield of Pomona; Mrs. W. M. Bartley of Pomona; Mrs. Irene Tobey, New York City; George B. Scofield of Covina. Cremation took place at Rosedale cemetery in Los Angeles in accordance with her wish, on Wednesday, January 25th.

BROADWELL.

He is Busy Filling Orders on an Exclusive Line—Big Sale in Readiness.

An exclusive line of merchandise,
which was placed in the hands of W. B. Broadwell of Covina, and which was advertised with his name attached in the Ladies' Home Journal, has resulted in a big mail order run on his stock. The unique method of advertising, and the fact that the Covina merchant was wide-awake enough to seize his opportunity against competitors throughout the state, has caused a big trade to come to the local store.

Mr. Broadwell is rather mysterious about the line of goods, and refers the inquisitive to the Ladies' Home Journal, but he has been receiving orders
from San Luis Obispo, Carpinteria, Whittier, Santa Barbara, Randsburg
and other cities of the state, calling for orders all the way from $5.00 to $30.

"Business is good," said Mr. Broad-well; "business is fine." That was all the time the Covina merchant could spare to talk. Mr. Broadwell is putting on a monster sale, which is advertised in the Argus this week. He is having a hard time to get ready for this sale, as the store is well filled with patrons every day, which takes up the time of his working force.

THE CENTURY MARK.

Covina Woman is One Hundred Years Old and Surrounded by Many Admiring Relatives.

The Los Angeles Times has the following story of one of Covina's residents:

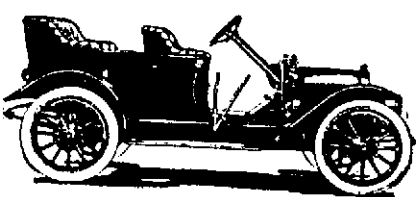

One hundred years old. This is the proud record of Mrs. Sarah Heath, who lives at Baldwin Park on the Covina line with her only son, Dr. Martin D. Heath and his wife. Until a few weeks ago Mrs. Sarah Heath was in a normal state, with her mind clear and her health unimpaired. Now she is in bed, her muscles refusing to obey her will and her mind wandering. "The penalty of old age," declares Dr. Heath. "She may recover and she may not."

Mrs. Heath was born in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, one year before the War of 1812. Pennsylvania, now one of the most populated states, at that time was still a vast wilderness with a mere handful of people. It was known as the Far West. Mrs. Heath has lived in California eight years, but she doesn't want to die here. She wants to go back to her old home in Pennsylvania.

She has two grandsons, two granddaughters and two great-grandsons living. Her grandsons are R. L. Heath, who is a Lieutenant at the Central Police Station and C. H. Heath, chief telephone operator at the same place. Miss Sarah Heath, who is the younger granddaughter, is now attending the state university at Berkeley. Mrs. J. J. Williams of Los Angeles is the other granddaughter.

Not a Question of Etiquette.
Mrs. Hendricks (the landlady)—Can I help you to some more soup, Mr. Dumley?
Mr. Dumley—No, thanks.
Mrs. Hendricks (engagingly)—Don't refuse, Mr. Dumley, because I don't consider food form to be helped twice to soup. We're not particular people here.

Plenty of Gypsum or Land Plaster-- Which is Sulphate of Lime--Plenty of Fruit. Some Lime, Some Fruit. No Lime, No Fruit

IT WILL PAY YOU TO READ THIS.

In the many samples of soils that have recently been analyzed in the vicinity of Covina, Glendora, San Dimas and Charter Oak by Dr. Snowden, all fell below the minimum ratio of two of lime to one of magnesia.

When the soil falls below this ratio, mottled leaf is the result. U. S. Bulletin No. 1 says: "If the ratio of lime and magnesia in the soils is judiciously regulated, great benefit to agriculture will result and an essential step forward will be made."

There is perhaps few bearing orchards in the valley that will not require from 5 to 10 tons of lime to the acre to bring it up to the proper ratio of lime to magnesia, in the first three feet of soil. This excessive magnesia will destroy our orchards if not overcome by lime, and according to all good authority gypsum (sulphate of lime) is the only form of lime that will successfully overcome it.

READ WHAT IS SAID ABOUT IT BY GOOD AUTHORITY:

U. S. Bulletin No. 1 says: P. 43. "Lime appears to be the only antidote, as far as the elements are tested, for combating an excessive amount of magnesia."

P. 45. "The experiments of the writer with the carbonate show that in overcoming the noxious effects of magnesia its action was very slow, owing, apparently, to its not being in a finely divided condition and its difficult solubility."

P. 50. From the proceeding experiments the favorable action of gypsum in counteracting the toxic action of magnesia is apparent. From an agricultural standpoint it is, besides, the most available form for liming, because of its cheapness as compared with other of the most soluble forms of lime."

P. 52. "As borne out by experiments, gypsum appears to be, all things considered, the most available form of lime to apply in overcoming the noxious influence of an excess of magnesia. An excess of gypsum is little to be feared, as the plant seems to be able to use magnesia if present in sufficient amount for its direct needs, whether gypsum be present in large amount or small. On the other hand, a lack of lime in a soluble form, is more to be guarded against, for in this case the magnesia, if in a certain excess, will be assimilated to the detriment of the plant."

P. 53. "In the more soluble forms of lime, as sulphate and nitrate, are more efficient in overcoming the noxious effects of magnesia than less soluble forms, as carbonate (air-slaked lime). You must use gypsum if you do use air-slaked lime."

OTHERWISE VALUABLE.

P. 37. "The presence of lime may serve several purposes. It supplies the necessary elements in the construction of plant tissue, hastens the decomposition of organic matter, facilitates the assimilation of other elements, and produces favorable conditions in the soil." Secretary O. E. Bremner of State Commission of Horticulture says: "In our judgment the gypsum is far superior to air-slaked lime for fertilizing purposes."

According to good authority, taking gypsum as 100 per cent effectiveness, slaked lime only equals 13 per cent.

According to Prof. Hillman, on the analysis of orange trees in 100 parts there is taken out of the ground: Nitrogen, 1.72; phosphoric acid, .91; potash, 1.22; lime, 1.94 per cent. According to other analysis by good authorities there was 7.15 times as much lime as phosphoric acid and 4 times as much as potash, where lime prevails in the soil.

TAKE NOTICE.

Government bulletin 77 reads: "Lime is said to take the place of potash in certain chemical combinations which exist in the soils, thus liberating the potash and placing it at the disposal of the plants. In this particular, GYPSUM (land plaster or calcium sulphate) is believed to act more energetically than carbonate of lime, air-slaked or water-slaked (hydrated) lime."

A FERTILIZER

The same bulletin says: "In case a soil is seriously deficient in lime, GYPSUM may act as a direct manure."

COVINA, CAL., JAN. 28, 1911.

TROTHS, TRIFLES AND TRAITS.

By Sylvia Sylvester.

"Standing with reluctant feet,
Where the brook and river meet,
Womanhood and childhood fleet!"
Covina, California, Jan. 28.

Did you girls who sang at the Yaw concert begin to realize what a pretty sight you made? Occasionally you hear someone say: "Well, perhaps she is pretty, but she knows it, and that spoils it for me."

Why of course she knows it! How can she help it? Her mirror tells her so, her mother tells her so, her chum tells her so. . . . But she may be quite modest in her knowledge—regard this as a gift unacquired and unmerited. She may know it, but she must not show it. Paradoxical to be sure, but life is full of paradoxes. There is real joy in solving them too, only you may not look over someone's else shoulder and copy her answer to the problem of life, for your equation will be quite different.

Friday night a group of sweet, sane womanhood with the priceless gifts of youth, of dreams, of enthusiasms—that sight, alone, in its classic setting of beautiful architecture, was well worth going far to see. I wondered then, if, stored away in the hearts of you, was a dream that some day you too might stand on that platform, a beautiful prima donna singing in your own town. Lightning, they say, does not strike twice in the same place. The year before I came to California, I lived in a house on whose site a bolt of lightning had penetrated as the foundations were being laid. Some three months later, I sat on the veranda of the new home and saw another bolt that killed a man across the street. Yet a third bolt set fire to our neighbor's barn. So, from analogy, it is not impossible that Covina may give to the world another singer who shall charm thousands. If that be so, let her keep the womanly charm of her predecessor—the flexibility of resource.

Don't you remember that quaint incident last year, "The Singer and the Mouse?" When His Sleek Slowness appeared in all boldness, did this singer pause a note's-worth in her song? Not a bit. She advanced to him, she receded. She showered upon him trills from "Lucia" with fire, form and issuance; then gathering the "frou-frou" of her skirts she left him, while the onlookers in the dimmer circle of light beyond laughed most merrily.

Girls, if you are ambitious, keep always in mind that the genius for work is the greater requisite. Flawless notes, technique and feeling are not gained in a day. Someone quoted in our Covina booklet:

"Aim high. 'Twere better thine arrows

Below the mark should fall,
Than that through fear of failure
Shouldst never aim at all."

But to come down to less lofty heights—hair ribbons, for instance. There has been for ages poetry and romance woven about the ribbons in a woman's hair. The ribbons nowadays are gorgeous in their magnitude, yet there is moderation in all things, and, though I like the style of stiff, pert taffetas, after all, if they hide the natural contour of the head and the girl's hair line framing the face, they defeat the end of beauty: for "beauty unadorned," you know, etc.

Cause of Fruit Splitting Being Investigated

Horticultural Commissioner Jeffrey's attention has not been called to the finding of Prof. R. R. Snowden on the splitting of oranges and the cause. The announcement made exclusively in the Argus some weeks ago, which was obtained through an interview with Prof. Snowden, stated that this scientist had arrived at the conclusion that an over abundance of magnesia in the soil was a certain cause for fruit splitting—not possibly the only cause, but one of the fundamental reasons for this disease.

Prof. Snowden's premise is well taken, if we are to believe what other growers have had to say on the subject since the announcement. The reason advanced by Snowden is understandable to everyone, and therefore is simple in the manner in which it arrives at the difficulty. Too much magnesia in the soil, or to put it better, an over-balance of magnesia against the corresponding lack of lime, has a direct effect on the foliage of plant life, especially such heavy lime-carrying plants as citrus trees. As Prof. Snowden puts it "the orange skin is nothing more than a metamorphosed leaf, and what effects the growth of the leaf, effects the growth of the orange skin."

If the lack of lime causes a badly balanced food to be brought to the consumption of the tree, the effect is immediately to be seen in the foliage, and with this condition, we find chlorosis, or mottled leaf. Prof. Snowden has shown, and other scientists agree, that the lack of lime in the soil is one of the principal reasons for the prevalence of mottled leaf. He then goes farther, and points out that a lime starvation that effects the leaf in this manner, must naturally, (or unnaturally) have an effect on the rind of the orange. The fruit splitting occurs most frequently where the analysis of the soil shows that the soil is badly in need of lime.

In the investigation which Prof. Snowden has made in relation to chlorosis during the past year, he has traced it definitely to such badly balanced, lime-lacking soil conditions, and in making these investigations he found that fruit splitting was also prevalent—that it seemed to go hand in hand with chlorosis. Not always, but it was found in the majority of cases. He also found fruit splitting where chlorosis did not show, but where lime was found in plenty in analysis, and therefore the chlorosis was undoubtedly in its incipency and not advanced to the stage where it began to mottle the leaf.

In an interview this week with Prof. Snowden, the Argus found that the professor is now examining a 100-acre orange grove for soil conditions, and under such circumstances as will either support his statements on fruit splitting or cause him to abandon the premise. Prof. Snowden, however, has progressed far enough already with this examination to feel confident that he has discovered a very apparent cause for this disease.

Horticultural Commissioner Jeffrey, in his lead article in the "Times" of January 22, answers a query from a Pasadena man who asks for a cure of fruit splitting, stated that he (Jeffrey) does not know of any cure, or of the cause of this disease. The commissioner advances several theories, but admits frankly that he does not know. He speaks of the great prevalence of the fruit splitting this year in Riverside and Redlands, and intimates that the fruit shipments will be cut down very materially because of the large amount of culls from this cause. The horticultural commissioner's attention is here called to the work accomplished by Prof. Snowden, and the professor, in an interview this week, stated that he would be glad to throw as much light on the question as is within his power, for any who wish to communicate with him. The article which originally appeared in the Argus has been copied widely, in Riverside, Redlands and Porterville, and in such papers as the Pacific Rural Press and others. Everywhere Prof. Snowden's finding has been commented on favorably.

INFESTED PEPPER TREES.

Scale Breeders Must Be Cut Back or Sprayed to Protect Infestation of Orchards.

The word has gone out from the county horticultural commissioner's office that all pepper trees infested with black scale or other vermin, must be trimmed back and the branches infested cut off. Where this cannot be done without destroying the entire tree, thorough spraying is recommended, as the spraying will not injure the tree, even if used in large quantities, and it will kill the scale.

Horticultural Inspector James Hodges of the Covina district says that a great deal of the trouble may be overcome by taking out the infested parts of the tree. The commission is of the belief that the rancher should be protected from the infested pepper trees, especially after the fact that over $100,000 has been spent this fall and winter in the Covina territory alone, in an attempt to thoroughly kill out the black scale, his money spent in fumigation, is of no lasting value unless pepper trees and other trees effected, are also eliminated in some way. Many property owners who have pepper trees on their ranches and in front of their homes, have been ordered by the commission to kill the scale, and the trees belonging to the city, where they are on city property on the streets will also undergo treatment. This seems like merely a fair deal to the rancher who is spending good money to clean his grove of scale.

SOAK THE GROVES.

Prof. Norton Tells Orange Raisers That Winter Irrigation Is Important Feature.

The holding of the meeting of the Covina Valley Farmers' Club in the Woman's Club House last Saturday, proved a success, as the club has become too large to satisfactorily assemble in private homes on the occasions when a special program has been arranged.

Prof. J. H. Norton of the Experimental station at Riverside spoke to the members on irrigation and kindred subjects. One especially strong point made was that of the necessity of filling the ground with water during the winter months. Prof. Norton advocated a thorough soaking of the soil when water is to be had in great plenty. This has often saved groves from pinching on water far into the summer months.

A good musical program was given, consisting of vocal solos by W. P. Nye, piano solos by Miss Meta Brunjes, and violin solos by Robert Philileo, accompanied by his sister, Miss Katherine Philileo. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, Mrs. Jacob Brunjes, Mrs. E. A. Cooper, Mrs. S. Blum and Mrs. A. T. Anderson.

CHECK PASSER DISAPPEARS.

T. W. Burke, Smooth Shoe Salesman, Gets Good Change on Bad Paper From Merchants.

Nothing has yet been heard from the hunt that is being made for a smooth stranger and his wife, who passed worthless checks in Covina stores recently. The man's name is T. W. Burke, and he was accompanied by a woman whom he claimed was his wife. There were two children with them. The man is described as 25 years old, height five feet, six in., weight 150 pounds, black hat, black eyes, brown suit.

The man came to Covina and worked one day in one of the packing houses. He came into Broadwell's store and purchased articles, tendering a check, and also tried the same scheme in the Peoples Store. He received thirty dollars in change, and the checks proved to be of no value. Burke is known as an expert shoe salesman, who has worked for some time in Los Angeles, but he cannot be located.

When the Wire Spring Sags.

An excellent way to improve a worn wire spring on a metal bed or cot is to take an ordinary manilla rope, tie it to one side of the bed, and lace back and forth across the middle of the bed under the spring.

You will find this a great improvement, as it prevents the spring from sagging and makes the bed as comfortable as when new.

Farmers' Institute at San Dimas.

Arrangements have been completed to hold a Farmers' Institute in San Dimas on February 16. This meeting will be held under the auspices of the University of California Farmers' Institute and will be conducted by J. B. Neff, the university representative.

It is confidently expected that a large attendance will be present, as a meeting of this kind will be of vital interest and value to the growers and farmers in this section of the country. Foreman & Hoke's ban has been engaged, in which the institute will be held, and the following program has been arranged:

Tuesday, Feb. 16, 9 a.m.—Introduction, J. S. Billheimer; The Economical Use of Irrigation Water, H. Culbertson, El Cajon; Selection of Productive Types of Navel Oranges, A. D. Schammel, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Afternoon, 1:30 p.m.—Question box, J. B. Neff; The Practical Use of Fertilizers, Prof. J. H. Norton, Riverside Experiment Station; Principles of Lemon Tree Pruning, Prof. J. E. Coit, Whittier Experiment Station; Pure Foods, Prof. M. E. Jaffa, University of California.

A full discussion will be held after each paper, and all are requested to take part.

People from Glendora, Covina, Pomona, Claremont and other out-of-town places are requested to come and bring basket lunches. Coffee will be served free by the people of San Dimas.

Committee of arrangements: F. B. Landon, G. F. Platt, G. W. Hosford.

WATCH US GROW.

THERE IS A REASON.

The BASIC IDEA

of growing oranges is to grow for profit.

All other considerations must ever remain side issues. It is true that it is employment for gentlemen; that it is aesthetic business, and one of intensive culture, far removed from that of ordinary agriculture. It is a profession.

BUT, IF IT DOESN'T PAY

Or doesn't pay well, then the fundamental reason for growing oranges is lost. Nobody will dispute this fact.

One of the reasons why orange growing sometimes does not bring adequate returns is because the firms marketing the fruit make it cost too much to get the fruit to the consumer, and the returns to the grower are not what they should be.

The Edmund Peycke Company

Is in business right here in Covina, as well as in every orange growing district in California, with the purpose of marketing the fruit at a fair profit, with a higher return to the grower than any other concern. WE DO THIS. WE DO NOT MERELY SAY WE DO. WE DO IT.

One announcement for this week is the fact that the EDMUND PEYCKE COMPANY will handle the fruit on the 27 acre ranch of Contractor Arthur Bent of Los Angeles, situated one mile east of Grand avenue in the Covina-Glendora district. There are twelve carloads of Valencia to ship. The attractive returns received on the Aurora brands of the EDMUND PEYCKE COMPANY is causing a number of heavy growers to turn over the marketing to us.

THE USE OF

Nitrate of Soda

in the world increased last fiscal year

85 per cent

over the preceding year.

9,000 tons more were used on the Pacific Coast and Hawaiian Islands for agricultural purposes in 1910 than in 1909. The increased profits were great; while no one can show where anything but good has resulted.

One prominent and intelligent orange grower who used over 5,000 lbs. per acre in the last fifteen years finds his "orchard and trees are in good condition and production;" and surely the experience in Southern California should be the best guide for Southern California horticulturists.

The average of seventeen (17) analyses show the soils of Covina Valley to contain over 23 tons actual Potash per acre in two feet depth. Both tend to render this potash available, and they react together in other ways to help the citrus orchardists.

Nitrate of Soda and Superphosphate

THE YAW CONCERT.

The Prima Donna, Generous With Songs and Smiles, Sings For Her Home Folks.

That which is difficult or impossible to the mediocre singer is accomplished with ease by the trained artist. Those same difficulties may have, and probably did, confront the artist in the days of first struggle, but for the very reason that they were difficulties, they became the easiest thing to accomplish, because of insistent, persistent, dogged, determined effort to conquer.

That's one reason why many audiences who do not understand what Ellen Beach Yaw is accomplishing, are often left in ignorance of a really great musical feat, because it was done so easily it escaped the attention of only those who have often attempted to do the same thing and failed. That very fact might pass as a good definition of a true artist—one who has conquered difficulties in singing to the point where they are the easiest things performed. Ellen Beach Yaw has made a paradox of difficult things in singing. They are supremely easy to her.

The Covina audience which greeted Madame Yaw on Friday night last, gave her an ovation which is always awaiting her here in her home town. She had prepared a concert for "home folks", and she was delighted with the opportunity of singing to them. She sang gloriously, and generously, responding to many encores, and singing many songs which she has made to live in the hearts of her home people. Her songs included such numbers as "Die Lotusblume," Schumann; "Spring Flowers," Reinecke; Waltz song, Romeo and Juliet, Gounod; "The Lass With the Delicate Air," by Arne; "The Little Dustman," Brahms; "To Spring," Gounod; "Alr De Louise," Charpentier; her own songs, "Cradle Song" and "Love's Lament;" and "The Nightingale," (Les Noces De Jeanette) by Masse. But it was in her encores that she brought out the warmth of feeling and the applause which had a more intimate feeling to it than the applause which followed her great numbers. "The Last Rose of Summer," "Loch Lomond," and "My Old Kentucky Home" were appreciated as these beautiful ballads of memory seldom are, for she sang them with a touch of the great artist that brought out the full meed of pathos and tragedy enwrapped in these song-brochures.

In an encore, the "French Laughing Song," from the opera Monon Lescant she performed difficult work which was lost in the pleasure which it gave, which is as it should be. This delicate skit showed a perfect control of the entire range, a more perfect control than is found as a rule in the greatest of singers. For there are many of the greatest grand opera stars who cannot keep on the key all the time. A rapid arpeggio, or colorature work in the upper register is often blurred and indistinct among the best of them, but never with Madame Yaw. Her truth to pitch is one of the wonderful things which goes to make up the ensemble of pleasure in her performance.

The singer was assisted by Jay Plowe, flutist, and Currier Deming, pianist. Mr. Plowe's work in obligato with Madame Yaw, is always perfect and pleasing. Mr. Deming is the last word on accompanying the voice. It is so, or he would not be with Madame Yaw. As a tribute to the great singer, the girls' high school glee club sang a number "Who is Sylvia," by Schubert, at the opening of the concert, under the direction of Professor R. W. Groom. Madame Yaw will remain for several weeks in Covina, and will leave in the early spring for New Orleans where she will begin her summer engagement. In the meantime, she is interesting herself at her ranch home on Lark Ellen avenue, by listening to young voices, principally girls, who come from Los Angeles and all over Southern California, to get her sympathy and assistance. Madame Yaw is helping several young singers in Covina to acquire courage to study with a purpose. Her personality is an inspiration to singers as well as the finished, glorious product of her voice. The concert was run under the auspices of the Covina Chamber of Commerce, and financially as well as artistically was a splendid success.

TASTEFUL ALTERATIONS.

J. H. Coolman's Residence Undergoes Changes of His Own Making With Pleasing Effects.

When a man is his own architect he can make four walls into a home that is "home" in every sense of the word. And when a man shows the exceptional genius in this trade that is shown by J. H. Coolman, the effect is pleasing to everyone who is in a position to appreciate artistic comfort as exemplified in home building. Mr. Coolman has recently finished remodeling his home on the site near the Southern Pacific depot, on one of the prettiest side streets of the town. The house is one which Mr. Coolman built twelve years ago, and recently he took upon himself the task to make some additions and changes. Having been engaged in the house-building trade for many years, he set about the work with the assistance of his brother, George Coolman, and the result is a very comfortable and beautiful residence from every standpoint. The large living room, as it is now remodelled, is twenty-five feet by sixteen, and it includes what was formerly a small den on the south side. Mr. Coolman has made this southern exposure practically all glass and sunlight. He has carried the glass doors up as far as the upper floor will permit, and cut in the windows in such a way that a flood of sunlight is constantly in the room from the south exposure. This large room opens also into the front room which is to be Mr. Coolman's den, and the rooms on the lower floor are all laid in solid oak. The dining room has been very pleasantly fitted up, and it is here that the wall decorations are made harmonious with the exquisite China painting, done by Mrs. Coolman, which adorns the walls in variety and profusion.

On the upper floor Mr. Coolman has made several changes. He has built a large cedar closet for one of the rooms, and has fitted his bath-room with shower baths connected with the solar heater, and all the rooms are made to satisfy every comfort.

The chief addition to the outside is the wide reinforced concrete piazza, which supports a roof with cement columns of the Ionic type or architecture. This is also joined by a port cochere on the south side, which allows for the driving of the automobile to the steps of the porch, and above the port cochere, on its flat roof, Mr. Coolman has what he calls "The Ramparts," suitable for out-of-door sleeping in summer, or as Mr. Coolman says, "big enough to accommodate a brass band as a band stand."

The installation of an especially satisfactory grate, for the fireplace in the living-room, has made this room one of the most cheerful that anyone might happen into, and the whole house has been given an added feeling of comfort by the many artistic improvements which the owner has made.

SPECIAL FERTILIZER

Nitrogen	Phosphoric Acid	Potash
10 7.12	5 10	2 2.40

AT $50.00 PER TON

Both mixtures are achieving splendid results. This is the best known plant food assembled in any fertilizer.

Since 1906, Elmer Thomason, one of the well known growers of the Covina Valley, has CONSISTENTLY USED the Armour fertilizers, year after year. Mr. Thomason has used ARMOUR'S SPECIAL 582 for a spring application, and BONE, BLOOD AND POTASH for a summer application. He plants also a green crop nearly every year. If the trees seem to need it he often puts on a little nitrate of soda after using the Special 582, or some of ARMOUR'S HIGH GRADE BLOOD. In Mr. Thomason's grove there has been no hint of deterioration. His trees are among the oldest in the valley. His crops the last four years have been SECOND TO NONE in the valley. He has determined on a good fertilizer, and is using it YEAR AFTER YEAR.

We are preparing some signed testimonials by prominent ranchers that are indisputable. Some will appear next week. Watch for them.

Theatrical Notes

Burbank.

"The Fox" goes into its third week of popularity at the Burbank theater beginning with the Sunday matinee. This comedy of Lee Arthur's has unquestionably caused more comment than any other production given by Mr. Morosco, if not more than any other heretofore given on the coast. Not only has the elaborate scenic setting shown Mr. Morosco's own gold faith in his announcement that he is going to play it in the East, but it has given to Los Angeles the most expensive stock performance theatergoers have ever seen. The play itself is so entirely different in thought and treatment from any other drama ever written that it stands in a class by itself. Although "The Fox" has achieved considerable reputation as a baffling puzzle play, it is not the manner in which it fools the audience that makes its appeal. The characterizations in the play are novel to the stage, and probably nothing like the Peter Delaney of A. Byron Beasley has ever been created. All of the other members of the Burbank company are equally at home in roles which possess originality in almost as great a degree. David Hartford, David Landau, Charles Ruggles, Peter Lang, Frank Camp, Frederick Gilbert, Willis Marks, Marjorie Rambeau and Louise Royce give a performance which is finished in every detail. The third week of "The Fox" will give the Burbank company a splendid opportunity for rehearsing the first stock production ever given of David Belasco's great New York comedy success, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which will be staged the following week.

Hamburger's Majestic.

Miss Maxine Elliott comes to the Hamburger's Majestic theater on Monday night for one week in her jolly nautical comedy, "The Interior Sex," in which she sailed to success in a spanking breeze during a long run at Daly's theater in New York last winter and spring and a supplementary engagement at her own theater this autumn. The comedy was written for Miss Elliott by Frank Stayton of London and has in it the tang of the sea air and the music of rolling waves. By the care and taste of its setting, the distinguished quality of its acting and a role which suits Miss Elliott's voice and manner, it gives promise of going into theatrical history as the star's greatest comedy success. It tells the story of a beautiful woman who is rescued from an open dory adrift on the wide ocean and brought aboard a yacht owned by a man who hates women, or thinks he does, which all amounts to the same thing. He has left London to escape the charms of his feminine acquaintances and is writing a book which he is pleased to call "The Interior Sex," in which he dwells with more candor than politeness on the weaknesses and foibles of womankind. Circumstances force the woman to remain on the yacht some days and the gradually clearing comprehension of the man for woman-kind in general and this woman in particular, makes a diverting and absorbing entertainment, enhanced, of course, by a pretty love story, for naturally the master of the yacht falls desperately in love with his charming supercargo. Miss Elliott will have the same support which surrounded her during her two New York runs in the piece. The company includes Frederick Kerr and O. B. Clarence, two gentlemen celebrated in London for their abilities to amuse, and T. Tamamoto, a Japanese actor of marked ability. The scenic accessories are novel in the extreme, all the action taking place in the yacht, "Firefly," of which the cabin, decks and superstructure are revealed.

Belasco.

"The Liars," John Drew's most enduring comedy success, will be given this week by Lewis S. Stone and his associates of the Belasco company. The presentation of this Henry Arthur Jones play will take on additional interest from the fact that it will serve to introduce two new members of the Belasco organization, Robert Harrison and Hugh Dillman, as well as offering splendid opportunities to Roberta Arnold, the new Belasco ingenue. "The Liars" represents Mr. Jones at his very best. Long considered as the most thoroughly representative of English dramatists, in the Belasco offering provides Jones full scope, with the result that the four acts provide an entertainment at once sparkling and refreshingly attractive. Incidentally, the production will afford the women of the Belasco company a chance to display some specially fine gowns, and the managerial assurance is given that this sartorial opportunity will be taken advantage of. Mr. Stone will be seen in the role originally played by Mr. Drew, while Miss Gordon will assay the chief feminine part. The entire Belasco company will be found in particularly congenial roles in "The Liars," and the performance should be one of the noteworthy events of the current season at the Belasco.

Following "The Liars," the Belasco organization will give the first play of the great Southwest, "In God's Country." The production is made by special arrangement with Wm. A. Brady, who will make the play known to New York theatergoers immediately after the Belasco production. The scenes of "In God's Country" are all laid in Arizona, near the Utah line, and the play is said to happily combine melodrama of the better sort with much really diverting comedy of the kind that is pretty certain to create an inordinate amount of laughter. Lewis S. Stone will have splendid chances for good work in "In God's Country." His role is that of a cowboy who takes to finances with highly satisfactory results to all concerned.

High School Items

A very enjoyable feature of school life is the German club, which meets every little while. Programs are given, consisting of German songs, dialogues, and sometimes, playlets. The membership of the club is somewhere around thirty, and Irma Fickleworth of the Junior class is president.

Well, well, well! What do you know about the girls? They beat El Monte "to a frazzle," as the colonel would say. The game ended with the score 14 to 1—mark you, one—in favor of Covina. And they let us know about it too, on Monday morning, when they all got together and gave three cheers and a tiger for their victory. The team has, I believe, won every game played this season.

Dorothy Bixby, of the Sophomore class, was very ill with measles the fore part of the week, but at the present time is recovering nicely.

The boys of the school held a meeting Monday afternoon, to discuss the question of a ball team. While nothing definite was done, it is almost certain that the boys will do their best to make the baseball season this year a success. Practice has been going on steadily for some time among the students interested in the game, and there is a surprising quantity of available material.

Vivian Hodges has returned and resumed her studies in the Senior class after an absence of a week or more on account of illness.

Our basketball girls will play San Fernando high on the home grounds today at 2:30. The contest promises to be a close one, as San Fernando has quite a few victories to her credit. Of course we'll win, but we can't tell by how much.

The regular quarterly meeting of the student body was held Wednesday. A committee was appointed to confer and recommend students for the positions of editor-in-chief and business manager of the Cardinal, Covina High's official publication. The debt on last year's Cardinal has been paid off, and the way is clear for the organization of the paper for this school year.

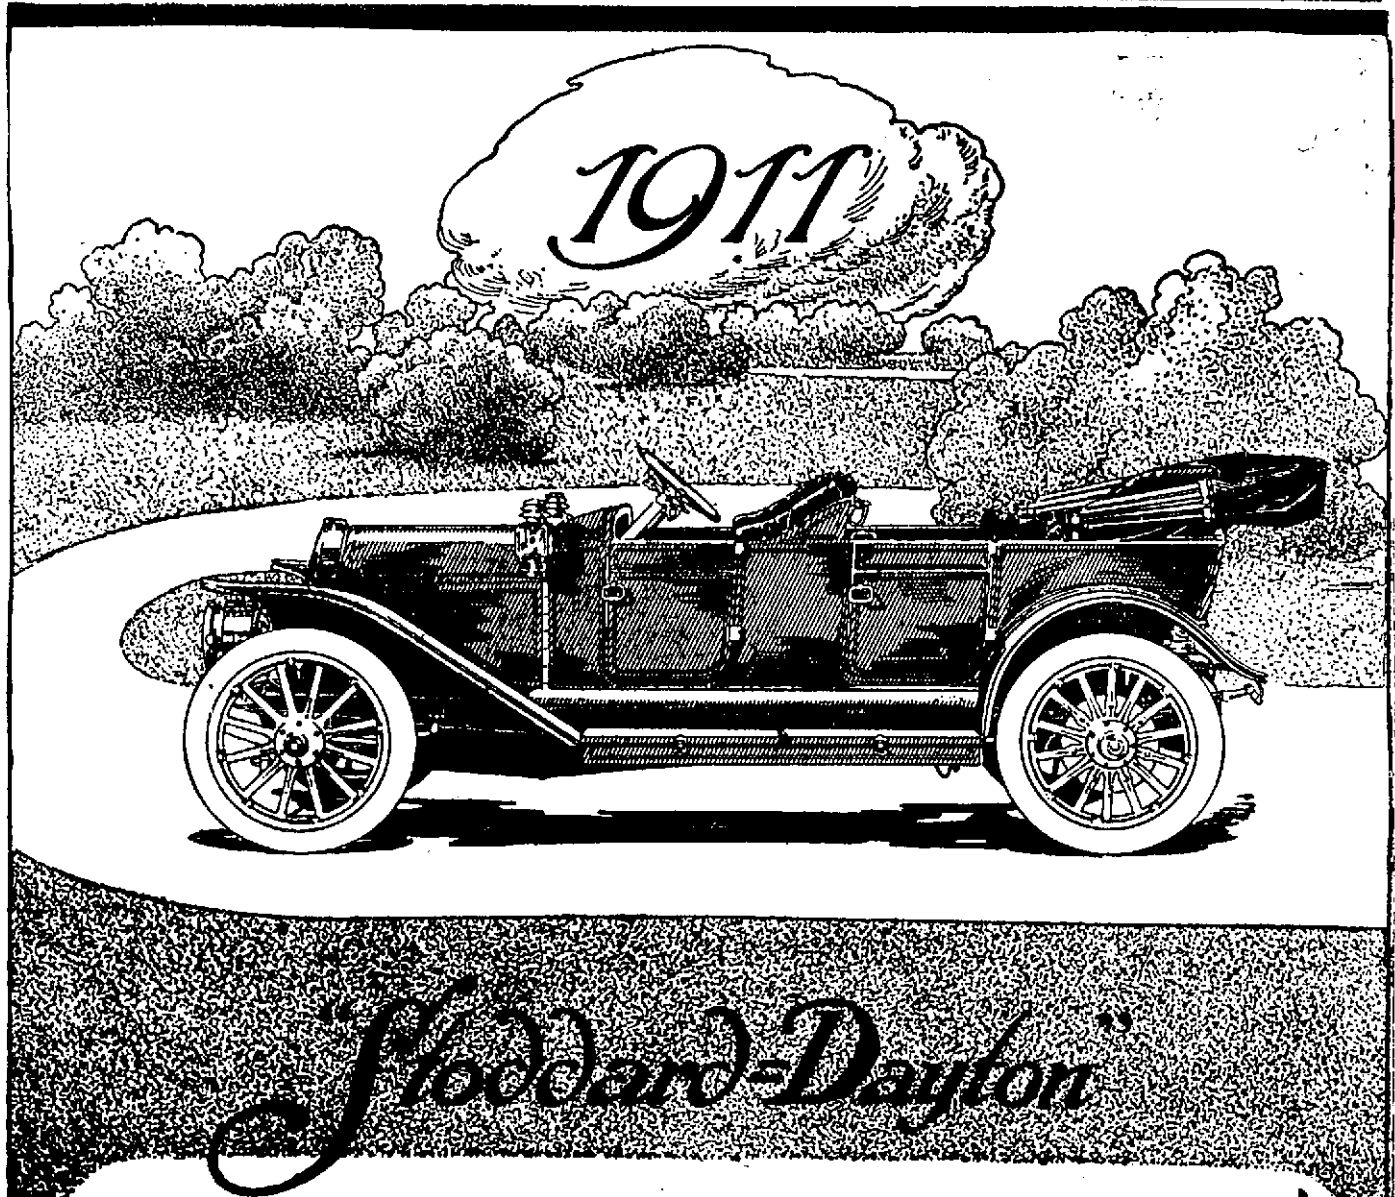

The baseball grounds have been graded and leveled, to put them into better shape for the coming contests. Examinations were held Friday, as this week marked the end of the half year. The third quarter begins next week.

He will appear in a Schubert concert in Los Angeles within a few days.

The excursion struck Los Angeles in five carloads, and the gentlemen have been taking Southern California by storm. Mr. Douglas will bring a party to Covina this coming week and an effort will be made by the Chamber of Commerce to entertain the gentlemen.

Recommending Incautiously.

Mrs. Florence Maybrick the woman who was convicted of poisoning her husband by slow and gradual administrations of arsenic in the city of Bristol, England, and who served a long term of imprisonment for this crime, has been booked by the W.C.T.U. of Los Angeles to speak on "Prison Reform" in the Temple auditorium. This is according to good advice from that city. There is no question but that the lady will draw a big house. The Los Angeles Times has commented on the matter, stating that what is needed is not so much a reform of prison conditions, as reformed prisoners. The W.C.T.U. may be engaged in splendid work in this country, but Mrs. Maybrick should not be allowed to receive the sanction of the body. Sir Charles Russell, lord chief justice of England, was Mrs. Maybrick's counsel before he ascended to his high position. He might have pardoned the woman at any time after having reached this point of authority, but it is significant that he never did it.

Buys A Cadillac.

One of the latest converts to the automobile and to the excellency of the Cadillac "thirty" is Ed Worrel, who is around the city trying out his new machine in spite of the muddy condition of the roads. Mr. Worrel acquired his new machine through the agency of Frank Morris of Covina, last week.

Little "Want Ads." bring big returns.

FARMERS STRONG FOR EXPOSITION TAX

State Grange Adopts Resolutions Favoring Proposed Amendments

The farmers of California are enthusiastic supporters of the proposed Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915 and they are practically unanimous in favor of the proposition to tax the State and bond San Francisco to add $10,000,000 to the Exposition fund.

The California State Grange, at its meeting in Napa on October 6th, adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas, There has been submitted to the people of the State of California two proposals for amendment to the Constitution of the State; and

Whereas, These measures, if approved, will enable the people of San Francisco to raise by taxation $5,000,000 for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, and will provide for a State tax adding another $5,000,000 to the Exposition fund; and

Whereas, We, as farmers and producers, realize the vital necessity of supporting and encouraging the efforts of the men who are bending every energy to the successful consummation of the plan to place before the world the wonderful resources of the Pacific Coast; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the California State Grange, do hereby express our belief that the best interests of California will be served by favoring these measures. We are of the opinion that the effect of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition will be to largely aid in the development of the State and her resources;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each subordinate Grange in the State, and to each individual member;

Resolved, That the Secretary of this organization be instructed to forward each subordinate Grange in California such printed matter as will call the attention of the people to the importance of these measures.

EDITORS FOR EXPOSITION TAX

Members of California Press Association Will Work for Amendments.

The California Press Association has unanimously and unqualifiedly endorsed the San Francisco Panama-Pacific Exposition project. Seventy-five members of the Association, all prominent newspaper editors and managers, held a three days' conference in San Francisco October 7, 8 and 9, and after a thorough discussion of the subject, pledged themselves to work for the passage of the two proposed constitutional amendments by which $10,000,000 will be added to the Exposition fund.

The resolutions adopted contain the following paragraph having particular reference to the State tax:

"This convention heartily endorses the State tax on $5,000,000 to be devoted to the funds of an International Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915."

ODD FELLOWS ENDORSE EXPOSITION

The Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., at its annual session at Santa Ana, on October 7, unanimously adopted the following resolution endorsing the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco in 1915:

Resolved, That the Grand Encampment heartily endorses and approves the holding of the Panama-Pacific Exposition in California in 1915, and requests its members, individually and collectively, to use their best efforts and influence in local, State and National matters that shall culminate in assembling not only the people of our own Republic, but the nations of the world, in our Golden State at the completion of this great enterprise.

AN ENORMOUS PLEDGE.

Commenting editorially on the action of the legislature in paying the way to add $10,000,000 to the San Francisco Panama-Pacific Exposition fund the Healdsburg Enterprise says: "It is recognized that the exposition would be of great benefit to the whole coast if only from an advertising point of view. In order that the United States government may take official notice of the fair it is necessary that these bonds be voted. This $10,000,000 together with the $7,500,000 already subscribed by San Francisco will enable California to go to the opening of the session and offer the United States an enormous pledge that it is able to finance and conduct an exposition that will be a credit to the nation."

THE LOGICAL PLACE.

That San Francisco is the logical place to hold the world's fair in 1915 could not be denied by even the fairest minded people of New Orleans. There is no harbor to New Orleans; it is inland 100 miles, on a river, but no place to invite the navies of the world, and that will be half a show of itself. It is to celebrate the bringing of the ocean to the coast, and with the finest harbor in the world San Francisco is entitled to it. Let's boost San Francisco and California.—Acos Rooster.

The Covina Argus, $1.50 per year.

FOR THE WOMEN.

New Office Created by Chamber of Commerce Which Is Unique in Work of "Boosting."

Mrs. W. P. Nye has taken the position of Woman's secretary, as an assistant to Secretary H. N. Wells of the Covina Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Nye's work will be largely with the societies of the city, and also as a correspondent with women who are contemplating making California their home. The position occupied by Mrs. Nye will relieve Mr. Wells of a great deal of work that has been keeping him from matters needing immediate attention, and it is thought that Mrs. Nye can interest the women of the city more than usually, in the civic affairs. The woman's secretary will be found at her desk in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and she says that she will be glad to entertain any suggestions that may come from the women of the community.

Is Now Improving.

Fred W. Fabrick, son of F. H. Fabrick, the hardware merchant, is recovering from a dangerous attack of pneumonia. Mr. Fabrick has been very ill for five weeks, but complications did not set in until a week ago, when he was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital and operated upon. Drainage tubes were inserted to relieve the fluid pressure on the pleura, and he is reported as resting comfortably.

Announcement.

Customers who have been taking milk from me are hereby notified that I have disposed of my dairy stock and business to the owners of the "B. & F." ranch, said ranch being under the management of F. O. Frazier, who will have charge of the dairy business, and will no doubt continue to give as good service to you as I have, and I bespeak for him your patronage.

When parties desire to give orders by phone, they will kindly use No. 1102, instead of No. 137. Mr. Frazier is sparing neither pains nor money in fitting up for the dairy business, and will use every effort to give his customers only pure milk and cream, and the best service possible. I thank all my customers for the patronage given me in the past.

TAKE NOTICE

Prof. Snowden gives analysis of lime I have for sale as follows: Lime, 54.97 per cent, equivalent to carbonate of lime, 98.16 per cent; magnesia, 2.39. One ton of this material will put into the soil 1100 pounds lime and 47.8 pounds magnesia, and is excellent for orange and lemon orchards. As we have no alkali, we need lime only. So compare the cost of lime which I handle and other materials which are being sold and you will be convinced that straight lime is much cheaper. H. H. HUNTINGTON.
